THE SPOTLIGHT

Community Spotlight

Every year, Neighborhood Allies recognizes an individual or organization that embodies what it means to be a “neighborhood ally” by genuinely partnering and collaborating with our organization to help advance our mission of supporting the people, organizations and partnerships committed to creating and maintaining healthy neighborhoods. Our 2019 Ally of the Year is Ms. Denise Edwards—a strong and dedicated resident leader and activist, Grassroots Grantmaking Committee Member, Real Estate Co-Powerment Series Graduate, and Opportunity Fund Community Panelist. Grantee Spotlight

Recently re-launched in the Hilltop, the Beams to Bridges program established a cohort of residents who, after a 9 month learning experience, will be equipped to address their own mental health needs as well as the concerns of their neighbors. Over the past few months, the current Beams to Bridges cohort has achieved certification in Mental Health First Aid; held bi-weekly meetings to discuss topics surrounding personal mental health, community trauma, and how to support and share resources with fellow community members; held a Collaborative Resource Fair in Beltzhoover; and planned and hosted their first community conversation and panel discussion focused on black mental health. Funder Spotlight

The Heinz Endowments recently awarded Neighborhood Allies and the Office of Public Art a $190,000 grant to carry out its second public art collaboration – Public Art and Communities 2.0! We are beyond excited to once again connect artists with community organizations and to support the creation of public art projects that make an impact in communities. Thank you to The Heinz Endowments for believing in us and in this project from the very beginning. From TPAP to PAC, they've stood by us. And thank you to our new supporter – National Endowment for the Arts – for providing us with a $150,000 grant through the Our Town, creative placemaking grants program! We can't wait to see what this new project brings to our communities! Read more.

Market Confidence | The Roxian Theatre is Awarded the 2019 ULI Catalytic Place Award!

On Friday, October 18th, the Urban Land Institute (ULI) in Pittsburgh awarded The Roxian Theatre with their Catalytic Place Award during the 7th Annual Placemaking Awards for Excellence. The Placemaking Awards for Excellence is an annual event that provides ULI the opportunity to formally recognize outstanding projects, achievements and leaders in our city who are committed to the creation and celebration of “place.” The Catalytic Place honor and award is given to a project that is recognized as a place that best generates improvement and progress to the economic development and/or standard of living in a surrounding community. The Roxian Theatre embodies these characteristics, truly serving as a catalyst for positive community development and change in McKees Rocks. Neighborhood Allies/LISC provided financing, technical assistance and added capacity to support the development and completion of the Roxian Theatre. We are a proud partner and supporter of this project and the MRCDC!

Quality of Life | Accredited Financial Counselor Training Infuses Elevated Financial Coaching and Builds Capacity within Organizations

Last Spring, Neighborhood Allies partnered with Pittsburgh Community Services, Inc. to invest in an inaugural cohort of aspiring financial professionals who will use their skills to give back to the community. To become certified financial counselors, cohort members are required to complete online coursework, engage in 1000 hours of client time, and pass an exam. In addition, the cohort meets regularly to provide support and accountability, and to enhance learning outcomes. Thus far, two participants have successfully completed the program and received their accreditation, while two more members are preparing to take their exams! This addition of Accredited Financial Counselors to social service agencies throughout the city will build capacity within organizations and allow staff to more fully address clients' spectrum of financial needs.

Neighborhood Image | Pilot Workshop for the Intro to Public Art and Communities (PAC) in Millvale

On Saturday, November 16th, we spent the day in the Triboro Ecodistrict at the Millvale Food + Energy Hub with our allies at Office of Public Art and The Borough of Millvale, PA for the pilot workshop of Intro to Public Art and Communities (PAC)! This workshop marked the launch of Public Art and Communities: Placemaking Strategies at Work - a new two-year program to engage public art as a strategy to realize community goals and objectives. Building on the success of the highly popular Temporary Public Art and Placemaking program, Public Art and Communities (PAC) will partner artists with community organizations to develop public art and placemaking projects that reinforce and build on existing planning frameworks. Stay tuned for workshops in our other focus neighborhoods!

Community Ownership | Homewood Progressive Dinner Highlights Homewood-based Businesses

On Saturday, October 19th, the Homewood-Brushton Business Association, in partnership with Neighborhood Allies, held the 2nd Homewood Progressive Dinner – a unique culinary experience and social affair that moved attendees through five different businesses in Homewood and offered food from five different Homewood-based caterers. From appetizers, to custom cocktails, to dessert, the event allowed attendees to truly get a taste of the neighborhood! The Homewood Progressive Dinner aimed to show attendees the exciting landscape of businesses and cuisine that exists within the Homewood neighborhood. Making up the heart of the neighborhood, these hidden gems are part of what makes Homewood – Homewood. From soul food at Ms. Sandy's Kitchen and New Orleans inspired cuisine from Roux Orleans Catering, to the African American centered and multi-ethnic missional community at House of Manna and the budding event spaces at Cabaret Banquet Hall, these small businesses are helping to shape Homewood as a true cultural destination with so much to offer.

ONE-ON-ONE INTERVIEW:
KELLIE WARE-SEABRON,
DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION POLICY
ANALYST FOR THE CITY OF PITTSBURGH

Equitable Development | Interview With Kellie Ware-Seabron, Diversity and Inclusion Policy Analyst for the City of Pittsburgh
Earlier this year, Pittsburgh Councilmembers R. Daniel Lavelle and Rev. Ricky Burgess introduced legislation that will require City of Pittsburgh Departments to embed equity and inclusive practices into their operations. The Councilmembers, on behalf of the Pittsburgh Black Elected Officials Coalition (PBEOC), worked with Mayor Peduto and the Pittsburgh All-In Cities' Equitable Development Collaborative to draft the legislation.

The legislation consists of four primary components:

- A resolution declaring the City of Pittsburgh to be an “All-In” city;
- An ordinance supplementing the Pittsburgh Code to add equity reporting requirements of Department Directors;
- A Resolution establishing an Equity and Inclusion Implementation Team
- An ordinance amending the Pittsburgh Zoning Code to require Affordable Housing Impact Statements

All-In Pittsburgh caught up with Kellie Ware-Seabron, Diversity and Inclusion Policy Analyst for the City of Pittsburgh, to see how the legislation is coming to life in the day-to-day operations.

Kellie Ware-Seabron is working hard to create a more equitable Pittsburgh, a city, according to Ware-Seabron, where your race, the neighborhood you live in, your finances, your sexual orientation, your gender identity or expression, your immigration status and your education level doesn't determine your quality of life. It's a Pittsburgh where all communities are doing well, and every resident is meaningfully participating in and enjoying the city's success.

“Equitable development is a priority for the City of Pittsburgh. The City is still figuring out what that looks like and how to get there, but it is a priority, in part because it's the right thing to do, but also in part because there's this increasing awareness that you can't sink half of a ship and if the city allows certain segments of the population to sink, we all go down together.”

-Kellie Ware-Seabron

PARTNERSHIP HIGHLIGHT

Opportunity Zone Association of America Holds Community Workshop and Catalyst Event in Pittsburgh

The Opportunity Zone Association of America (OZAA) held a community workshop on Thursday, October 31st, followed by a full-day catalyst event on Friday, November 1st.

Both events aimed to discover the impacts of Opportunity Zones (OZs) in other communities nationally, hear from national experts and policy makers, and help inform Pittsburghers about ways to leverage OZs overall.

The Pittsburgh Catalyst Event and Community Workshop are part of OZAA's Road Show that will continue across the United States in 2020. The goal of the Road Show is to share the ways in which Opportunity Zones are improving communities across the country and provide attendees with valuable insights regarding how to access national resources and apply success stories to their locale. It aims to gather, educate, and galvanize developers, investors, government representatives, and community advocates interested in using the federal OZ incentive to make meaningful investments in disinvested communities.

With planning that began in May, OZAA gathered many of Pittsburgh's OZ stakeholders to discuss the region's OZ assets, community strengths, and challenges, informing the programming of the two-day event. The workshop and event focused on practical application, best practices, and lessons learned from early OZ leaders.

As an intermediary nonprofit in Pittsburgh, Neighborhood Allies wants to ensure that our communities and community leaders are equitably positioned to access capital and saw the OZAA Roadshow as an opportunity to bring knowledge about OZ development opportunities and challenges to the region. Thus, we engaged with other local collaborators, such as Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, Pittsburgh Branch and Trailblaze Creative, to aid OZAA in creating their first ever catalyst event here in Pittsburgh.

Created as part of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act in 2017, the Opportunity Zone (OZ) Program incentivizes investors to invest into qualified low-income communities. Following the creation of the program, Governors of U.S. States and Territories (and the mayor of the District of Columbia), were responsible for nominating census tracts that meet certain predefined qualifications. While complex, OZs can bring potentially great economic opportunities to our communities. We simply have to be sure that community voice is heard in development processes and that investments live up to their promises to our neighborhoods.

TEAM MEMBER HIGHLIGHTS

Q4 2019 President's Special Initiative Award Winners

This quarterly award is given in recognition of a Neighborhood Allies staff member going significantly above and beyond the responsibilities of his or her position.

Stephanie Chernay

Stephanie put in tremendous time and heroic efforts to achieve truly exceptional results this quarter including guiding, directing and facilitating the successful submission of a transformative, corporate partnership that will formally be announced in the spring! This is one of the largest program grants in our history, and just as importantly this grant provides significant external validation of our organization in the corporate community. She co-designed, planned and helped facilitate the Opportunity Zone Catalyst Conference with a national partner, bringing local, regional and national attention to Neighborhood Allies as a thought leader and partner. Finally, Steph was the lead negotiator of a new partnership with the URA resulting in a $200,000 contract for the Equitable Empowerment Fund.

*Talia Piazza
DePasquale*

Talia has achieved exceptional results in this quarter including the successful Healthy Neighborhoods Celebration, which achieved its largest attendance, sponsorships, and overall funding in its 3-year history. The Communications Team, under her leadership, has continued to elevate this event. She also led the creation and design of multiple, important revenue-generating materials including the Centralized Real Estate Accelerator, Regional Real Estate Hub (Theory of Change), Economic Opportunity Banking Brochure, and most recently, Talia designed a brand new website to promote Pittsburgh Saves Week. Finally, she stepped up to provide pivotal and integral leadership to several events including the Opportunity Zone Catalyst conference and directed a highly detailed tour for the Deputy Secretary of HUD and other federal public officials.

Shad Henderson Delivers Keynote at 55th Annual Wilkinsburg Give Thanks Breakfast to 150 Attendees from Local Churches, Businesses, and Civic Organizations On Thursday, November 14th, 150 Wilkinsburg supporters and residents gathered for the Annual Give Thanks Breakfast at the Western Pennsylvania School for the Deaf. A holiday season tradition in Wilkinsburg, the breakfast included food, programming, and keynote speech from our very own Director of Equity and Community Partnerships – Shad Henderson!
